Strong YoY Growth; Post-festive Slump Might Impact Near-term Volume

Key Findings:

- ☞ Most segments witnessed YoY growth in domestic sales volume due to Diwali festival falling in Nov
- ☞ PVs and 2Ws volume grew by single-digit, while Tractor volume witnessed strong double-digit growth
- ☞ Overall wholesale volume across categories were either in line or lower than retail volume due to festive demand, positive sentiment and gradual opening of urban markets

Key Highlights:

1. Indian automobile companies reported higher YoY sales volume across segments in Nov'20 (barring M&HCV and 3W segments) on the back of festive season, demand recovery in urban markets and continued healthy demand in rural markets.
2. In most segments, wholesale volume was lower than the retail volume, which picked up faster. Inventory level at the end of Nov'20 across segment fell by 0-2 weeks due to healthy off-take during the recently-concluded festive season. Notably, supply constraint restricted the wholesale volume of few companies.
3. PV segment is expected to have grown by 9% YoY, while Tractor segment reported a strong >50% YoY volume growth in Nov'20 led by positive sentiment following a healthy Rabi output and strong Kharif sowing, favourable monsoon and increasing production by the manufacturers.
4. Within the CV segment, LCV sales volume has been witnessing remarkable improvement during the past few months. M&HCV segment witnessed improvement due to volume traction in M&HCV cargoes, while M&HCV bus segment continued to fall by 70-90% YoY in Nov'20. 3W segment was the worst performer with >35% YoY fall in sales volume in the reporting month.

Our View

Looking ahead, we expect decent volume traction to continue in 4QFY21E as well due to improved economic activities across the country, while the scenario may become bit challenging in the near-term due to post-festive slump. We believe increasing positive sentiment, increased footfalls and higher enquiry levels coupled with steadily opening of the urban markets would help the automobile volume, going forward. We expect the industry volume to record double-digit volume decline in FY21E barring tractor segment. Ongoing positive momentum is expected to continue in tractor, 2W and PV segments, while M&HCV segment would recover in 4QFY21. We remain positive on automobile sector and Ashok Leyland and Escorts continue to remain our top picks.

- 2W: BAL's sales grew by 5% YoY (down 18% MoM) to 4,22,240 units, while HMCL's sales grew by 14% YoY (down 27% MoM) to 5,91,091 units, and TVSL's sales grew by 21% YoY (down 18% MoM) to 3,22,709 units.
- PV & CV: M&M's auto volume grew by 4% YoY (down 4% MoM) to 42,731 units and MSIL's volume grew by 2% YoY (down 16% MoM) to 1,53,223 units. ALL's volume grew by 5% YoY (up 7% MoM) to 10,659 units, while TMT reported sales of 49,623 units, up 21% YoY (down 5% MoM).
- Tractor: M&M's tractor volume grew by 56% YoY (down 30% MoM) to 32,726 units and Escorts' sales volume grew by 33% YoY (down 26% MoM) to 10,165 units.

Two-wheeler Segment

Bajaj Auto: Bajaj Auto (BJAUT.IN) sold 4,22,240 units in Nov'20 (up 5% YoY and down 18% MoM) due to healthy exports and strong 2W volume in domestic markets. Its domestic sales declined by 4% YoY and 29% MoM to 1,98,933 units, as 2W sales grew by 7% YoY, while 3W sales plunged by 66% YoY. Its exports increased by 14% YoY (down 3% MoM) to 2,23,307 units, as 2W exports grew by 18% YoY and 3W exports declined by 7% YoY. Higher exports can be attributed to strong demand revival in African markets despite subdued demand environment in few ASEAN geographies.

Four-wheeler Segment

Maruti Suzuki: Maruti Suzuki's (MSIL.IN) volume increased by 2% YoY (down 16% MoM) to 1,53,223 units due to inventory de-stocking, despite recent demand recovery. In domestic PV segment, its sales declined by 2% YoY (down 17% MoM) to 135,775 units. Its total exports grew by 30% YoY (down 6% MoM) to 9,004 units, while UV volume grew by 2% YoY (down 7% MoM) to 23,753 units. Van volume grew by 10% YoY (down 16% MoM). Mini segment (Alto and S-Presso) sales decreased by 15% YoY (down 22% MoM) to 22,339 units. Its volume in compact segment (Swift, Celerio, Ignis, D'zire, Baleno and WagonR) decreased by 2% YoY (down 19% MoM) to 76,630 units. Better traction in compact segment indicates re-shift of consumers' preference to high-end cars from smaller vehicles, which was witnessed during previous few months.

Mahindra & Mahindra (M&M): M&M's (MM.IN) combined volume (Auto + Tractor) came in at 75,457 units (up 21% YoY and down 17% MoM). Its auto volume (domestic + exports) grew by 4% YoY (down 4% MoM) to 42,731 units. It sold 41,095 units in domestic automotive segment (up 6% YoY and down 3% MoM), while exports declined by 38% YoY to 1,636 units. Its key volume contributor i.e. PV segment – comprising of UV, MPV and PCs – grew by 24% YoY (down 2% MoM). Its LCV sales grew by 9% YoY (down 8% MoM) to 18,554 units, while tractor sales grew by 57% YoY (down 30% MoM) to 32,726 units. Ashok Leyland: Ashok Leyland (AL.IN) sold 10,659 units in Nov'20 (up 5% YoY and up 7% MoM). Its LCV sales stood at 5,545 (up 32% YoY and up 3% MoM), while M&HCV volume fell by 14% YoY (up 12% MoM) to 5,114 units mainly due to 74% YoY decline in Bus volume. The CV players, who faced supply constraint leading to nearly zero inventory at the end of Mar'20, are in the process of re-building the inventory. We believe that retail sales would have been lower for the CV segment. We expect near-term slowdown and lower business activities to remain for some time, though its negative impact already started tapering off gradually. Pick-up in construction activities and infra projects have started helping the CV segment gradually. We expect the M&HCV industry to witness remarkable improvement in 4QFY21E.
